Anganawadi workers to get Rs. 8,000 per month

Assistants will be paid Rs. 3,500

The representatives of Karnataka State Anganawadi Workers' Association are seen expressing their gratitude to Chief Minister Siddharamaiah after a meeting at Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru this morning. Women and Child Development Minister Umashree is also seen.

Bengaluru, Apr. 10 (KMS& BCT)- Bowing to the demands from thousands of Anganawadi workers in Karnataka, the State Government has raised their honorarium to Rs. 8,000 per month. Currently, Anganawadi workers are paid Rs. 6,000 and helpers are paid Rs. 3,000.

The decision was taken at a meeting held this morning at Vidhana Soudha that was chaired by Chief Minister Siddharamaiah and attended by Women and Child Development and Kannada and Culture Minister Umashree, representatives from Karnataka State Anganawadi Workers' Association and a few Labour Unions.

The meeting was specially called to discuss the issues raised by the Anganawadi workers' groups.

As per the decision taken at the meeting, the honorarium was hiked by Rs. 1,000 in addition to the Rs. 1,000 hiked in this year's State Budget. In all, the Anganawadi workers will henceforth receive a monthly honorarium of Rs. 8,000. The Anganawadi Assistants will get Rs. 500 more and their honorarium will be hiked from Rs. 3,000 to Rs. 3,500 per month. Those who manage mini Anganawadis will get an honorarium hike of Rs. 500.

According to sources, initially the CM agreed for a hike between Rs. 250 and Rs. 500 citing financial constraints. However, this did not go down well with the Anganawadi Association leaders who demanded a monthly honorarium of Rs. 10,000. They told the CM that if their demands were not fulfilled, they would be forced to go on strike again.

Finally, the CM agreed for Rs. 1,000 hike. The Associations were told that there would be no hike next year and an undertaking has been taken from them that they would not strike work.

It may be recalled here that urging the government to fulfil their demands, the Anganawadi workers had observed a 24x7 strike from March 20 to 24 in the State capital.

Nanjangud By-election

Fate of candidates sealed in EVMs

Nanjangud, Apr. 10 (RK& VNS)- With voters of Nanjangud making a choice of their representative in the Karnataka Assembly in the by-election that was held yesterday, the responsibility of counting votes and declaring the results now rests with election officials.

The counting will take place on April 13 from 8 am and election officials have stored the Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) and Voter-Verifiable Paper Audit Trail (VVPAT) used for the polling yesterday at strong rooms that have been set up at the JSS First Grade College located on Deveerammanahalli Road in Nanjangud Town.

The college has been converted into a fortress with round-the-clock security by Policemen who are deployed every 10 ft.

Two rooms located on the ground floor of the college building have been converted into strong rooms and their entrances have been locked and sealed. A separate sheet made of plywood has been laid and sealed on the doors, making it impossible for anyone to sneak through.

After the polling was completed, EVMs and VVPAT machines from all the 236 polling booths were brought to the strong room with tight security yesterday. Later, the rooms were sealed under the supervision of District Election Officer and Deputy Commissioner C D. Randeep and Returning Officer G. Jagadeesha.

The rooms will be unlocked on Apr. 13 (Thursday), the day of counting, under the supervision of the Deputy Commissioner after which the EVMs and VVPATs will be shifted to counting rooms.

A total of 14 tables will be set up in 2 rooms and 56 officials have been deployed for counting duty. Counting will be held in 17 rounds under the supervision of election officials. Only contesting candidates and their agents will be allowed inside. This apart, a special media centre will also be setup for continuous update on counting.

TIGHT POLICE SECURITY

The entire area surrounding the JSS First Grade College has been cordoned-off and only election officials and Police personnel have been permitted to enter the building. The district administration has deployed a platoon of Indian Reserve Battalion (IRB) apart from 4 DySPs who are being monitored by Additional SP Kala Krishnaswamy.

This apart, dog squads will visit the college four times a day and DC D. Randeep will be visiting the college twice a day till the counting day.

Healing humanely

Budgetary provision for healthcare by the country's Union Government as well as its counterparts in the States and Union Territories as a percentage of the total in the economy may be talked about routinely in circles of analysts of the health of the land's economy while the issues of meeting medical expenses by a family, particularly by the economically-not-comfortably-placed families, with own resources has left the low percentage at its nadir. If the many ratios mirroring the healthcare sector in the country such as the number of doctors for every one lakh human population, number of paramedical staff for every qualified doctors, and so on have to conform to the World Health Organisation norms, the outlay on medical education as well as healthcare institutions, given the kind of costs to create the necessary infrastructure along with modern medical equipment, perforce has to be met with public funds in case of government and private sources in case of the rest, with not much scope for charity.

Creation of facilities and raising the quality of medical services, both being grossly outside the reach of rural populations, have been far outstripped by the steady annual addition to the country's headcount seeking healthcare and unabated rise in the number of victims suffering from debilitating diseases. The gap between preparedness to address issues of people's health and the burden of diseases bugging the diaspora is showing no signs of decline.

Living in insanitary conditions and consuming food of quality impacting health by a considerable proportion in the land's population may be attributed to ignorance about the intimate connect between living conditions as well as safe food and keeping away afflictions. The campaigns to create awareness about the imperatives of keeping the living spaces tidy have been mocked at by the masses huddling in urban spaces, paralysing the entire healthcare system and civic administrations overseeing the action in the system. The onus on saving themselves from the many self-inflicted diseases and bringing down the healthcare burden of both the government and their families solely lies in the lap of the people at large.

For reasons not needed to be stated explicitly, given the current profile of medical practice, based on expensive diagnostics, high-cost drugs and consultation fees, the now-extinct family doctor may have to stage a comeback. The culture of healing humanely, without meaning to belittle the toiling medical professionals in any way, can at least address ignorance and indifference of people in matters of their health.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

A study conducted by the Indian Medical Association (IMA) shows that 75 per cent doctors have at one time or another faced verbal or physical abuse. There are multiple reasons for this. K. K. Agarwal, the President of the IMA, says that the patient has moved from the Bhakti Yuga, marked by complete faith in the doctor, to Jnan Yuga, when the patient is well-informed about his illness and medication, while the doctor is still stuck in the time when raising questions was considered insolence, a challenge to his authority. An online survey started by the IMA on Wednesday threw up some interesting results: 72 per cent of the 500-plus respondents wanted the doctor to introduce himself upfront and mention his qualifications; 92 per cent felt the doctor ought to listen to them in greater detail; 85 per cent felt that the doctor must explain everything about the illness, treatment and medication; and 79 per cent said that the doctor should check with them if they have understood the treatment. Clearly, there is a communication gap the doctors need to work on. Also, the first point of contact for any patient — and his attendants — is invariably a junior doctor who is likely to err and is often unable to communicate properly, which leaves the patient very angry. — Bhupesh Bhandari in Business Standard.

'Artificial Sun'

Berlin: Scientists in Germany recently turned on the "world's largest artificial sun" a device made up of 149 Xenon short-arc lamps that can create about 10,000 times the amount of solar radiation we get on Earth. That's enough to melt metal or fry pretty much any living thing.

The bright minds at DLR, the German Aerospace Centre, believe that a field of adjustable mirrors could be used to focus sunlight into a very small and incredibly hot area to create a high-energy reaction where hydrogen is extracted from water vapour.

When the honeycomb of 149 Xenon short-arc lamps is switched on and focused on a single 20-by-20 centimeter (8×8 inch) spot, it produces 10,000 times the amount of solar radiation that would normally shine on the same surface, and furnace-like temperatures of up to 3,000 degrees Celsius (5,432 Fahrenheit).

Sculpture of dead beetles

Maebashi: Japanese artist Yoneji Inamura spent six years of his life collecting 20,000 beetles of different varieties and using them to create a five-foot sculpture of a popular Buddhist deity.

It's unclear how and when exactly Inamura started catching and collecting beetles. Some sources claim that it was during his days working for the local railroad, in Itakura, Japan's Gunma Prefecture, after noticing that the rhinoceros beetle's horn resembled the fingers of the Buddhist deity, he became fascinated with them and began collecting the beetles. Yoneji Inamura was not a professional artist, but in 1970, he got idea of using his extensive collection of beetles to create art. His first notable work was a wooden samurai sculpture covered in 5,000 beetles of different varieties. He spent 10 months using the bugs to make a unique armor for the samurai and the result was simply breathtaking. Yoneji Inamura (98), passed away earlier this year, there's no denying that Inamura's artworks have a unique charm, but knowing that they consist of thousands of dead insects also adds a layer of creepiness.

Make linking of Aadhaar with PAN card hassle-free

Sir,

This refers to the news item titled "Aadhaar to be must for IT returns" in a national daily recently. The PAN numbers of assessees do not match in most cases with the Data Base of the IT Department. With great difficulty one has to find out the name as per the IT data base and upload the Return of Income and not just based on the PAN Card held.

The issue of verifying the return with Aadhaar number has been there last 2 years and in majority of cases the name does not match and assessees have not been able to verify using the same. Hence if this is made mandatory from July 1, no one can file the Return for AY 2017-18 within the due dates.

I request the Finance Ministry to reconsider and understand the practical issues involved and make it mandatory for new applicants for PAN cards to link Aadhaar. For existing PAN Card holders some method has to be found to link the two sans hassles.

Gundlupet and N'gud by-polls end with record voter turnout

• Elderly woman dies after casting her vote

• Two injured in Gundlupet town lathi-charge

Nanjangud/ Gundlupet, Apr. 10- An elderly woman who returned home after casting her vote in the Gundlupet by-election yesterday died following a heart attack. The 83-year-old woman Devamma hailed from Hangala village.

Devamma

During her election campaign, Congress candidate Dr. Geetha Mahadevaprasad had visited Devamma's house and had urged her to vote along with her family members. Accordingly, Devamma went to the polling booth along with her grandson in a car as she was unable to walk.

Devamma has four sons and 10 grandchildren and her husband Bellappa had expired 10 years ago. According to her family members, she had expressed her desire to vote for Geetha Mahadevaprasad and had requested them to take her to the polling booth at around 10.30 am.

After voting, she came home and asked for drinking water as she was exhausted. She died as soon as she drank water, family members said. Hearing the news, Dr. Geetha Mahadevaprasad visited the house and paid her last respects.

LATHI CHARGE

Though the by-election was largely peaceful, Congress and BJP workers had heated exchanges near the Government Higher Primary School in Gundlupet town. The Police rushed to the spot and resorted to mild lathi-charge to disperse the crowd. Two Congress workers Sadiq and Mubarak were injured in the melee.

Money was being distributed to voters on the polling day too. Villagers spotted one person distributing cash and entering the names in a notebook. They caught hold of him and handed him over to the Police. Later, he was identified as Marashetti of Milk Producers Cooperative Society and he told the Police that he was working in favour of Congress party.

A couple in Madrahalli village in Gundlupet had a wish to vote together. They were not aware that this was prohibited. The couple tried to argue with the Polling Officers. A firm 'no' from the Officers resulted in the couple voting individually.

RECORD TURNOUT

A record turnout was witnessed in the by-polls to Nanjangud (Reserved) and Gundlupet (General) Assembly constituencies. While the polling percentage was 87.10 in Gundlupet, it was 77.45 in Nanjangud.

In Nanjangud, there are 2,00,498 voters including 1,01,267 men and 99,231 women and in Gundlupet, there are 2,00,862 voters including 1,00,144 men, 1,00,701 women and 17 others.

The by-elections were free from the usual complaints of missing names in the voters' list. Also, a majority of voters carried their Aadhaar cards instead of EPIC cards that were one of the identity proofs for voting. This avoided confusion, paving the way for smooth voting across the two constituencies.

Ayub Ahmed, the messiah of unclaimed bodies

SERVICE TO SOCIETY: Pictures show Ayub Ahmed performing his duty.

By S. Pushpavathi

Mysuru, Apr. 10- Here is the story of a good Samaritan from the city who is the messiah of unclaimed bodies. He does the odd job of shifting unidentified and unclaimed bodies from different parts of the city to the MMC&RI mortuary and even performs the last rites of some as per their religion.

Ayub Ahmed, a resident of Shaktinagar in city, is the man who finds satisfaction in his odd job. The 38-year-old Ayub Ahmed, popularly known as Ayub Ahmedji, has been carrying out this job, for the past 18 years.

Ayub took up this odd job at a young age which later became his profession. He carries unidentified bodies in a 1961-model Ambassador car that he owns. He is married and has two daughters. His wife Rooha Tabassum extends a helping hand to her husband by taking up tailoring jobs.

Ayub says that once he was going to Gundlupet when he noticed an unclaimed body lying on the road. But the body remained lying on the road even after he returned from Gundlupet and this incident deeply moved him. He then himself came forward to shift the body. But his parents and friends strongly opposed his resolve, which left him deeply disappointed.

He later went to Bengaluru and joined a private company at Maavalli, where he came across a similar situation when he had to shift a body. Not looking back, Ayub shifted the body to its assigned destination for which he was paid Rs. 10,000. Later on, he returned to Mysuru and continued his body shifting service, which fetched him some money.

"He whose head is in heaven need not fear to put his feet into the grave."

—Matthew Henry

Ayub, who is carrying on with his body-shifting job, is currently engaged in shifting bodies found near Nanjangud, KRS Dam, Balamuri, T. Narasipur, Srirangapatna, etc. Ayub says that there were many instances when the persons whom he takes along to shift bodies, have taken ill after being scared to see highly mutilated, decomposed or severed bodies.

Despite being a family man and having certain responsibilities, Ayub is always ready to perform his job, irrespective of the time. He arrives in his car after he is called and soon commences his work, wasting no time.

Ayub, who is a strong believer of mankind, says that human beings can be classified only as male and female and not by religion. However, he conducts the last rites of unclaimed bodies as per religion. If the body is that of Hindu, Ayub performs the last rites at the burial ground along Jodithenginamara Road leading from Highway Circle, Christians at the Christian Cemetery at Rammanahalli and of Muslims at the Khabarsthan behind the Mysuru Central Prison.

Ayub stores a lot of white clothes at his house and is always willing to lend them to relatives of the deceased for free if they are unable to pay for it. Also, he stands in support of the poor until the last rites of their kin are performed.

When asked for the number of bodies he has shifted to the mortuary, Ayub said that he has lost count. But when insisted, he said that he has shifted more than 10,000 unidentified/ unclaimed bodies.

Ayub gets calls round-the-clock once unidentified bodies are found by the Police. If the relatives of the deceased are not identified even after three days after the discovery of the body, the Police will post pictures of the body on social networking sites. After all their efforts to trace the relatives fail, the Police will call Ayub to carry out the last rites of the person as per traditions.

Ayub says that he is carrying out his job as a service to the society so that his work will always remain in the minds of the people.

"I will continue the service until my end and I have plans to buy an ambulance for the purpose," he says.

Miscreants break into locked house, ransack household items

Mysuru, Apr. 10 (PM&KS)- An incident of miscreants breaking into a house and ransacking household items has come to light lately.

The incident has taken place in the house of NIE retired Professor Dr. Srinivas in Kuvempunagar here and the incident came to light on Saturday (Apr. 8) morning when the housemaid came to the house for cleaning and found the front door opened.

It is reported that Dr. Srinivas, on August 27, 2016, had locked the house and left for America to his son's place along with his family.

Before leaving, Dr. Srinivas had given the keys of his house to his friend Ashok to take care of the house in his absence following which Ashok used to regularly come to Dr. Srinivas' house during nights to sleep.

But on Friday (Apr. 7) night, Ashok had not come to the house to sleep. The next day (Apr. 8), the maid as usual came to the house for cleaning at about 7 am and found the front door open and immediately informed Venugopal, brother of Dr. Srinivas.

Venugopal, who has lodged a complaint at Kuvempunagar Police Station, said that the stolen items would be known only after Dr. Srinivas returns to city.

Kuvempunagar Police, who have registered a case in this regard, are investigating.

An Easter in Moscow

By Girija Madhavan

Churches in Mysuru will soon prepare for Easter, Good Friday being on the 14th and Easter Sunday on the 16th of April. Photos of Easter last year at Saint Gregorios Orthodox Syrian Church in Mysuru reminded me of an Easter thirty-three years ago in Moscow in the former Soviet Union.

We lived then in a Moscow city suburb, Vspolni Periyulok. Ours was an old house which, along with the Indian Ambassador's Residence in the road Ulitsa Obukha belongs to the Indian Embassy. Our villa was said to have been originally built in the 1900s by a "Sugar Baron" [rich business man] from Petersburg for his mistress in Moscow.

The Residence of the Indian Ambassador also had an apocryphal tale connected to it: that a ballerina built it for her Bulgarian lover. She died young, leaving him her house and wealth, which he ran through. He is said to have ended up as the doorman at the theatre where she danced.

Beyond our home was a building where the dreaded Lavrentiy Beria, Marshal and head of the NKVD secret police, was said to have lived for a while.

I walked a kilometre to get milk [moloco], Russian black bread [klieb] and vegetables like cabbage [capusta] from a cluster of shops round a pond where two black swans swam, sometimes entwining their necks in a graceful caress.

Once I saw a tall, handsome man, the centre of a group of people at the pond and recognised him as the poet, Yevgeny Yevtushenko. He saw my sari and said, "So, you are an Indian friend! You have many Gods and Goddesses in your pantheon, don't you?" and moved on with a smile. The sari often elicited friendship. But one freezing day (minus 15^{0}C), I was wearing boots and padded overcoat with a hood. A shop-girl berated me as a "Cygan" or "Gypsy" for failing to understand her Russian. She was surprised when I replied sharply in English. "Amerikansky," she exclaimed.

Those days only officially approved institutions could interact with diplomats. Ladies from "Dom Druzhby" or the House of Friendship invited me to Easter Sunday at the Cathedral of Dormition [Uspensky Sabvor] at which the Patriarch of Moscow presided. I was to boil two eggs in tea or onion skins to colour them red and bring them with me. This colour is a symbol of the blood of Christ, the egg representing resurrection.

In my best Kanjeevaram sari, holding two boiled eggs, I met the ladies at the Cathedral. The walls were richly decorated with gold and icons. Ornate gilded chandeliers hung from the ceiling. A throng of elderly women wearing scarves or fur hats embraced each other three times, exclaiming "Christos Voskres"! [Christ is reborn] with fervour. There were few men and hardly any young people in the church as the communist regime professed atheism and people preferred to keep their religious beliefs private.

Easter Service in the Dormition Cathedral [Uspensky Sabvor] in the Kremlin. [Pic: Internet]

Ladies from "Dom Druzhby" or the House of Friendship invited me to Easter Sunday at the Cathedral of Dormition [Uspensky Sabvor] at which the Patriarch of Moscow presided. I was to boil two eggs in tea or onion skins to colour them red and bring them with me. This colour is a symbol of the blood of Christ, the egg representing resurrection.

The Patriarch's acolytes took away the eggs I had boiled and handed him an ornate egg that he blessed and gave to me. At home I put it into a Kashmir papier-mache box lined with cotton wool.

From Moscow my husband was posted as Indian Ambassador to Japan. Departure meant farewell parties, packing and sending our goods to Tokyo. My mother Mukta's flower paintings, our books and household goods, my Tamboora and the Easter Egg were packed in a lift-van [large wooden crate] for the long overland journey from Moscow across the Steppes to the Russian port of Nakhodka to be shipped to Japan.

The egg found a place in our Tokyo drawing room. I made the mandatory "Calls" on other ambassadorial wives. Apart from diplomats we met Japanese scholars like Hajime Nakamura, author of books on Buddhism and academics like Jason Roussos, a Greek teaching in Tokyo's Sophia University. A balding, bespectacled man, he was witty and widely read. He would visit unannounced and the Haryanvi Security Guard would announce, "Jai Singh aaye hain."

Jason had his right thumb bandaged for many days. It turned out to be skin cancer. He was a good pianist and was unwilling to have his thumb amputated as the Japanese oncologists wished. He opted for London where he hoped he could be treated without losing his thumb. We accompanied him to Narita Airport to see him off. I wanted to give him a token of good will and friendship for this journey. I remembered that he was a Greek Orthodox Christian. I gave him the Easter Egg as a talisman. He was moved and said he would treasure it.

The treatment in London gave him only a couple years more of life. It was comforting to know that the Egg, blessed by the Patriarch of Moscow at Easter, had given Jason some solace in his last days.

Elephant Census: Here's your chance to volunteer with Forest Department

Mysuru, Apr. 10- If you like wildlife and if elephants interest you, here is something that may catch your attention. The Karnataka Forest Department is inviting applications from wildlife enthusiasts to participate in the elephant census that will be held from May 15 to May 19, 2017.

Volunteers who are interested in participating in the census will be trained after fulfilling the formalities before they start working with Forest officials. The census will provide a clear picture about the pachyderm population in the State, in the wake of frequent man-animal conflicts.

Department sources said that preference will be given to volunteers who have participated in earlier census and the age limit is 22 to 50.

Training will be imparted for volunteers at Bannerghatta National Park, Aranya Bhavan - Mysuru, Chikkamagaluru Forest Office and Dandeli Nature Camp. Training is compulsory for participating in the census and selected volunteers should compulsorily participate on all the days of the census. Participants will not be charged a fee and no remuneration will be paid for the exercise.

Under the Mysuru Elephant Reserve, census will be conducted at the Bandipur Tiger Reserve, Bannerghatta National Park, Bhadra Wildlife Sanctuary, Cauvery Wildlife Sanctuary, Biligiri Ranganathaswami Temple Wildlife Sanctuary, Madikeri, Kudremukh, Ramanagaram, Chamarajanagar, and Mangaluru. Census will also be simultaneously conducted in other parts of Forest reserves like Belagavi, Yellapura, Haliyal, Dandeli, Kollegal and Koppa.

The previous elephant census was held in 2012 where the estimated population of wild elephants in Karnataka was over 5,000. This time, the census will focus on areas outside forests as the jumbos are seen on the outskirts of forest patches.

According to Forest Department records, in the last five years 515 elephants died a natural death, while 68 met with unnatural death because of electrocution, shooting, man-animal conflict and poaching.

According to the Directorate of Project Elephant, two different methods will be employed to estimate the pachyderm population size, including a direct method (sample block count) and an indirect method (line-transect dung count).

To obtain data on population structure, a waterhole count is also being suggested considering that it provides better visibility of age and sex of the animals. This year, GPS (Global Positioning System) will be used for the first time to count elephants.

Jumbo tramples woman to death in Suntikoppa

Suntikoppa, Apr. 10- A homemaker was killed by a wild elephant at 7th Hoskote village near Suntikoppa yesterday. The deceased has been identified as 45-year-old Saroja, wife of late Mani.

The incident happened at 6.15 am when she went to the backyard of her house to dump kitchen waste and fetch some drinking water from a public water tank. The elephant that came there from a nearby estate owned by one Irappa lifted Saroja with its trunk and smashed her on the ground.

Hearing her screams, neighbours rushed to the spot and took her to Madikeri District Hospital where she breathed her last. The elephant later made its way through the estate of one Gangadhar and a highway before entering the forest area. Suntikoppa Police Inspector Anoop Madappa and Forest officials visited the spot.

Former Forest Minister B.A. Jeevijaya visited the victim's house and condoled her death. Saroja is survived by a daughter and a son. Suntikoppa Malayali Samaja President P.C. Mohan urged the Forest Department to drive away elephants which are roaming around 7th Hoskote.

Expressing grief and fear, other villagers demanded immediate measures by the Department. They claimed that labourers are scared to venture out for work.

7th Hoskote Panchayat Vice-President Mustafa warned of serious protest if the Forest Department ignored the fatal incident and failed to take appropriate measures to ensure safety of the villagers.

Farmers expressed their helplessness in maintaining agriculture and plantation crops which often get destroyed by wild elephants. People said trenches dug by the Forest Department were unscientific and were not stopping elephants from straying into villages.

Palace Board takes over e-parking system near Varaha Gate

The e-parking facility near the Varaha Gate of the Mysore Palace that has been taken over by the Mysore Palace Board. Picture right shows two more gates that have been constructed as additional parking facility, which will be used in the event of extra rush, especially during Dasara.

Mysuru, Apr. 10 (MTY&BCT)- Parking for vehicles of tourists visiting the Mysore Palace has been streamlined for a hassle-free parking and to prevent fleecing by the parking contractor. The Mysore Palace Board has taken over the parking lot near the Varaha Gate and has been operating the e-counter since the last two days.

Acting on complaints of glitches in the parking management, the Palace Board had decided to establish a convenient and streamlined parking facility. The new parking system is on the model of those in malls where a computerised slip is generated with the vehicle number and time of parking.

Four electronic units each having 10x10 measurement have been set up by the Nirmithi Kendra at a cost of Rs. 33 lakh near Varaha Gate. Though the gates and the e-system were inaugurated sometime back, it was not operational as the parking contractor had approached the Court.

The contractor, who had been given the responsibility of running and maintaining the parking lot, had not paid money to the Palace Board and instead had approached the court seeking an extension. The court had ruled in favour of the Palace Board and had asked the contractor to either pay up or vacate the place.

Soon after the court order, Palace Board officials took over the parking maintenance and operations. Board officials said that CCTV cameras will be installed at all the four units for monitoring. Two more gates have been constructed as additional parking facility, which will be used in the event of extra rush especially during Dasara.

Parking rates

Parking fee will be different for different vehicle type. The parking fee for cars and maxi cabs has been fixed at Rs. 30 per hour and Rs. 10 for every extra hour. For buses, the hourly fee is Rs. 60 and Rs. 20 for every extra hour.

Likewise, the parking fee for two-wheelers is Rs. 10 and Rs. 5 after an hour; for autorickshaws it is Rs. 15 and Rs. 5 for extra time; for mini buses it is Rs. 40 and Rs. 15 for extra time, and for cycles - Rs. 5 and Rs. 2 extra time.

After hectic campaigning...CM takes time to eat Dosa, watch 'Raajakumaara' in Mysuru

Siddharamaiah greets movie team in Bengaluru

Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, flanked by his close aides Mariswamy (extreme left) and Seetharam, watched the Puneeth Rajkumar-starrer Kannada movie 'Raajakumaara' at DRC Cinemas in Mysuru yesterday. The CM, who was impressed by the movie, called the team to his residence 'Cauvery' in Bengaluru this morning and congratulated them for making a good movie. Picture shows Siddharamaiah greeting the Film Producer Vijay Kiragandoor as Director Santhosh Anandram and Actor Puneeth Rajkumar look on.

Mysuru/Bengaluru, Apr. 10 (OSR) - By-polls are over and now it's time for a break. At least that's the mantra Chief Minister Siddharamaiah seems to be following.

A day after the hectic public campaign ended at Gundlupet and Nanjangud, the Chief Minister was spotted savouring dosas at Ramya Mahendra Hotel near the RTO Circle in Mysuru and yesterday, after resting at his Ramakrishnanagar residence, he was spotted at a theatre watching the latest Kannada movie 'Raajakumaara.'

The Puneeth Rajkumar-starrer movie was being screened at DRC Cinemas in Jayalakshmipuram and Siddharamaiah arrived at the theatre for the 4.15 pm show along with some of his close aides.

Impressed by the movie, the CM told reporters that he liked the movie and even asked them to watch it.

He later returned to his house and had a chat with his friends over a cup of tea and left for Bengaluru at around 7.30 pm.

No AC FOR KANNADA MOVIE

Meanwhile, the audience watching the Kannada movie 'Raajakumaara' on Saturday took the authorities of Inox in Mysuru to task for refusing to switch on the air-conditioner (AC).

The movie is showing on Screen 4 of the multiplex and the audience present during the 9.55 pm show complained that the authorities did not switch on the AC. This led to confusion and the audience shouted slogans against the management. Later, they came out of the movie hall refusing to watch the movie.

One of the members in the audience said that when they questioned the authorities they refused to turn on the AC initially but switched it on after an hour.

Multiplex Manager claimed that the AC was on but due to extreme climatic conditions there was a variation in the temperature.

Interestingly, a similar incident happened in the State capital too at the Regalia PVR in Bengaluru's Nagawara area. According to reports, the AC at the screen showing 'Raajakumaara' was not switched on.

Thirty minutes into the film, the audience demanded that the AC be switched on and in response, the multiplex staff told them that they do not normally switch the AC on when a Kannada film is screened.

A huge ruckus followed, when the audience demanded to know if the multiplex staff would have behaved this way if a non-Kannada movie was being screened. Here too, the theatre staff told reporters that the AC had malfunctioned.

Nanjangud Dodda Jathra Teppotsava

Thousands of devotees witnessed 'Teppotsava' (floating festival) at the River Kapila in Nanjangud last evening which was organised by the Department of Hindu Religious Institutions and Charitable Endowments, GoK, as part of Sri Srikanteshwaraswamy Dodda Jathra.

CM launches Pink Hoysala vehicles for women and child safety

MUDA loses tables!

But the MUDA did not follow the Court order and with no other option, Kariyappa approached the Court again. And this moring, Yogesh, Kariyappa's Advocate, armed with the attachment order, arrived at MUDA office and attached its tables and chairs with the help of Court Amins.

Special Land Acquisition Officer (SLAO) Chandramma, who is in charge of acquiring land and compensating land owners, was not present when the properties were being attached.

The personnel present at the MUDA office, who were caught unawares, stood in shock as their chairs and tables were taken away.

Vaastu-Feng Shui & Bio-energetics

By S.B.S.Surendran
Accredited Master Feng Shui Consultant

Empowering the space

Feng Shui has come a long way with many adapting it in their daily lives right from interiors to furnishings, dress to make-up and vehicles too. By adapting some basic corrections and empowering the space through appropriate symbolism, the Feng Shui of a space can be made very vibrant.

When you incorporate Feng Shui principles into your home or office décor, you are intentionally acknowledging and connecting to the subtle and profound energies in the universe, and to your karma. You open yourself to the joy and wonder of having a relationship with your surroundings.

Feng Shui brings positive results when you practice it correctly. The great Chinese Classic, I Ching has influenced the evolution of Feng Shui enormously, and this is why many Feng Shui guidelines appear similar to other Chinese practices that are also based on the same philosophy of I Ching.

Personalised, intentional decorating helps bring your energy into your space. Special attention should be placed on home décor, furnishings, and colours, for example, so that as you grow, as your aspiration and goals in life change, as your family grows, as your career changes, the environment around you continually supports who you are right now, today.

• In the science of Feng Shui, East represents wood and is the direction of growth, prosperity and good health, hence placing healthy green indoor plants, water plants like Kwan-Yin bamboo, decorative gem tree is good.

• Vaastu and Feng Shui emphasise on the benefits of moving water to activate good luck. Water features like aquariums and fountains can activate positive Chi and usher in prosperity if placed in the living rooms and foyer east and north sectors.

• Your bedroom is your personal "nest", hence to ensure good health and proper sleep, avoid bed placements in the middle of the room as they are considered to be in 'floating' position and the swirling energy around the floating bed disturbs the person.

• Effect of energy fields of any kind as a strong bearing on human beings. Hence avoid metal bed frames, headboards as they distort the aura and the energy field around. Do not place equipments with strong electromagnetic fields like Television and Wireless sets close to the bed as they cause sleeplessness and imbalance.

• We all know that water is precious, Feng Shui tenets speaks of draining of wealth when we have water dripping in taps. It is said that dripping taps signify leaking wealth and the sound is considered "negative" so focus on the taps in the kitchen and toilets and keep them drip free.

• For frequent quarrels and arguments at home, the remedy could be a simple wall painting in red and gold, picture of lotuses or a combination of goldfish and lotus. Lotus signifies purity and love and fish in water is a gentle suggestion of Yin water which will appease the quarrelsome affliction.

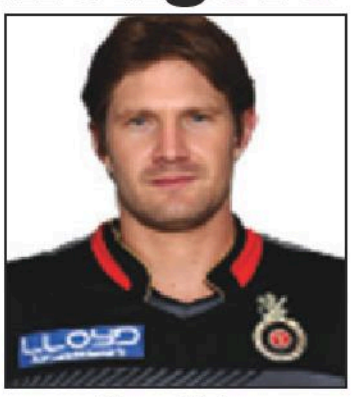
Royal Challengers to take on the Kings

Indore, Apr. 10 - Both teams were victorious in their respective matches on Saturday and will look to build on those wins. KXIP were quite professional in their win against Rising Pune Supergiant; the bowlers did extremely well to restrict the opposition to 163, after which all the batsmen contributed to the run-chase. Glenn Maxwell, who had a dreadful season last time round, started this season with a bang; in a match that marked his debut as captain, the Australian top-scored with a stroke-filled 44, and he, along with the team, will take plenty of confidence from that performance.

Royal Challengers Bangalore won a close match against the Delhi Daredevils. On a wicket with spongy bounce, they denied DD after giving them a modest 153 to chase. True to their motto, RCB were bold on Saturday and reaped the results; they weren't afraid to make four changes to the team that lost the season's opener, and Captain Shane Watson was impressive in how he marshalled his resources. The RCB dressing room must be delighted that the bowlers, who were dismal in the defeat to Sunrisers Hyderabad, stepped up and defended a below-par total. The win augurs well for RCB, for they are not too far from welcoming AB de Villiers back to the ranks; his return could be a huge boost to the RCB batting line-up.



Shane Watson

Glenn Maxwell

Glenn Maxwell and David Miller, given how destructive they can be, hold the key to how successful KXIP can be – not only in this particular match but in the tournament too. Where RCB are concerned, Chris Gayle – given his exploits with the bat over the years, and Kedar Jadhav, who starred in the previous match, will be central characters in the team's batting plans. AB de Villiers, if he makes the RCB XI, will be a huge force too.

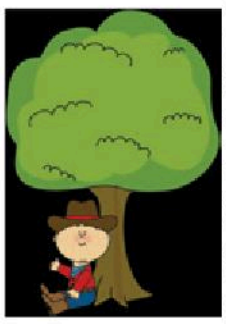
WORD OF THE DAY

Alow

Pronunciation: uh-LOH
Meaning: Below; downwards.



Origin: In nautical use, alow means "in or to a lower part of the vessel," indicating the deck or the area of the rigging closest to the deck, or below-deck as opposed to above-deck. The opposite of alow in this sense is aloft, used to indicate a higher part of the vessel especially around the mastheads or the higher rigging. Yet, while we are still likely to encounter aloft, in both nautical and non-nautical use, alow has become something of a rarity. When encountered, it is usually found in the combination "alow and aloft." This phrase literally refers to the upper and lower parts of a ship or its rigging, but it can also be used, as in our second example sentence, to mean "completely" or "thoroughly."

THE ODD WORD

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Union Jack

Meaning: The popular name of the national flag of the United Kingdom.

Origin: Two subjects that arouse passion more than most are language and national identity and here in the UK these collide at the name of the national flag.
What's the flag called? It's the Union Jack of course. Pause for an intake of breath amongst purists; "No, it's the Union Flag!"
Both Union Flag and Union Jack are widely accepted as referring to the national flag of the United Kingdom. In reality, although many will argue that they know which is the proper name, neither Union Jack or Union Flag is formally adopted and so you are free to use either.
The Union Jack is flown from the jack-staff, which is a spar on the bow of a sailing ship, and some say that the only time that the flag should be called the Union Jack is when it is flown from a ship's jack-staff. If you like you can opt for über-pedantry and call it the Union Jack Flag.
For and against we have:
'Union Flag' is first known in print in 1634 and 'Union Jack' is first found in 1674, so 'Union Flag' supporters may say that it had the name first and that 'Union Jack' is just a nickname.
Union Jack is more widely used and so has the advantage that everyone around the world will know what you are talking about.
